This topic is so important that it's covered in both elementary and middle school. Use the possessive nouns exercises and the possessive noun worksheets provided below to help your students learn how to use possessive nouns correctly. Possessive nouns example Mary's dog Students often confuse possessive nouns with plural nouns because both types sound the same when spoken and end with the letter "s." However, possessive and plural nouns have very different functions. They are also written differently. Plural nouns refer to multiple persons, places, things, or ideas, while possessive nouns indicate ownership. Possessive nouns are punctuated with an apostrophe ('), while plural nouns do not have an apostrophe. You can recognize a possessive noun by its special ending, as most possessive nouns end with an apostrophe and "s." Here are a few examples in some sentences: Mary's dog was a beagle.The dog's teeth are sharp.Larry's hair is very long.I forgot my backpack at Janette's house.Do you know the doctor's phone number? Once you have thoroughly covered possessive nouns with your students, encourage students to apply their skills by correctly selecting the appropriate word to complete a sentence. Review each sentence and decide if it needs a possessive noun or a plural noun, then choose the correct form from the bold options provided. The dogs/dog's collar is blue.Aaron's/Aarons friend is named Adam.I really like my grandmothers/grandmother's cookies.I really like to drink soda using spiral straws/straw's.My brothers/brother's are twins. The printable worksheet below includes the questions above, as well as five additional items. It's appropriate for elementary school students in third grade or beyond. View & Download PDF If you worked through the five in-article practice exercises, check your work against the correct answers. dog sAaron sgrandmother sstrawsbrothers After students have mastered the ability to select the correct version of a possessive or plural noun, based on what is needed in the sentence, it's time to move on to something a little more advanced. Rewrite the prepositional phrases below so that they feature possessive nouns. The meaning of the phrase should not change. the book of the teacher the garden of my aunt the house of my friend the stripes of the zebra the car of my sister For a printable worksheet featuring the above practice items and five more items, download the worksheet below. It features a complete answer key. It's a great activity for upper elementary school students. Here are some of the skills your child will be learning in the classroom.Reading & writingDetermining meaning of unknown wordsUse a variety of strategies for determining the meaning of unknown words.Example:Use what a sentence says to figure out the meaning of an unknown word or phrase in that sentence (use context clues to determine the meaning of a word).Use an understanding of prefixes and suffixes to figure out what words mean (e.g. heat/preheat, care/careless).Use resource materials (like glossaries and dictionaries) to determine the meaning of words and phrases.Figurative language and relationshipsUnderstand figurative language and word relationships.Example:Know the difference between literal and non-literal meanings of words and phrases (e.g. "take steps"; "something's fishy")Explain the differences in shades of meaning among related words (knew, believed, suspected)Use what is known about root words to understand new words with the same root (company, companion)Read third grade text fluentlyRead third grade text fluently and with expression, without pausing to figure out words and phrases.Example:Who is telling this part of the story? What can we learn about the main character from his actions? How is this illustration similar to the illustrations in other books in this series? Why did the main character react that way? What, in the text, makes you think so?What is the main idea of this article? How do you know? What does this diagram show us? Why is a photo included in this part of the article?Paying attention to detailsPay close attention to the details in a text, getting information from the words, illustrations, and graphics.Retelling storiesRetell stories, fables, folktales, and myths from many cultures, use details from the text to explain their central message.Comparing and contrasting textsCompare and contrast two texts about the same topic or written by the same author.Making connectionsDescribe the connections between specific sentences and paragraphs and the overall text (e.g. comparison, cause/effect, first/second/third in series).Engaging with a variety of textsActively engage with a variety of rich and challenging texts to build a foundation of knowledge in literature, science, social studies, and other subjects.Example:"Charlotte's Web" by E. B. White"Tops & Bottoms" by Janet Stevens"A Medieval Feast" by Alikei"The Story of Ruby Bridges" by Robert Coles"Moonshot: The Flight of Apollo 11" by Brian FlocaBasic rules of EnglishUse basic rules of English grammar, capitalization, punctuation, and spelling when writing.Example:Explain the function of nouns (people, places, things, or ideas), verbs (words that describe an action or state of being) and adjectives (descriptive words) in sentences.Use commas and quotation marks in dialogue.Spell common words correctly, use spelling rules and patterns when writing words.Use dictionaries to check and correct spelling.Writing structured storiesWrite a story with a clear beginning, middle, and end, using dialogue and description.Tip: Write and stage a play.Drama and performance can hook both lovers and non-lovers of reading and writing into enjoying language. Here's one idea to try with your third-grader: Write and stage a play! Gather a group of your child's friends and have them choose a favorite book. Help them pick a scene they love from the book and write a simple script—just by writing down what the characters said (or might have said). Help them pick a character to act out, find some props and dress-up clothes for costumes, and you're set to go!Tip: Encourage writing about holidays.Writing can be an important addition to your holiday observances. Invite your child to write and illustrate stories about her favorite holiday traditions. Encourage her to add lots of details by using all her senses in descriptions: How the potato pancakes smell at Hanukkah, how the candles glisten at Kwanzaa, what the Christmas carols sound like, how the wrapping paper feels as she rips open her presents. Make the story into a book—either on the computer or handwritten and stapled together—and save as a new family tradition to read and reread each year.Informational piecesWrite an informational piece that introduces a topic, groups related information clearly, uses facts and details, and ends with a concluding statement or section.Opinion piecesWrite an opinion piece that introduces a topic or text, states an opinion, clearly organizes and explains the reasons for the opinion.Using technologyProduce and share writing using technology (including keyboarding skills) with guidance and support from adults.Listening & speakingPresenting information orallySpeak in complete sentences with appropriate detail, at an understandable pace, when presenting information orally.Participating in conversationsParticipate in conversations about topics and texts being studied, listening carefully to the ideas of others, and asking and answering questions in order to gather more information or deepen understanding of the topic.Main ideas & supporting detailsDetermine the main ideas and supporting details from media presentations or books read aloud.Research & inquiryShort research projectsIndependently conduct short research projects to gather information from print and digital sources and build knowledge about a topic.Take notes and sort informationTake brief notes and sort information into categories.For tips to help your third-grader in English Language Arts class, check out our third grade English Language Arts tips page.TODAY's Parenting Guide resources were developed by NBC News Learn with the help of subject-matter experts, and align with the Common Core State Standards.
